A Tale of Two Sisters

With filmmaker Kim Ji-Woon in attendance!

35mm
Print

(KIM Ji-Woon, 2003, 115 min, South Korea, in Korean w/ subtitles, 35mm)

After being institutionalized in a mental hospital, Korean teen Su-mi (Su-jeong Lim) reunites with her beloved sister, Su-yeon (Mun Geun-yeong), and they return to live at their country home. The girls' widower father (Kap-su Kim) has remarried, and the siblings are immediately resentful of his new wife, Eun-joo (Yeom Jeong-ah). As Su-mi and Su-yeon try to resume their regular lives, strange events plague the house, leading to surprising revelations and a shocking conclusion.

"The atmosphere of mounting dread is matched by just-right performances, design and camerawork." --Time Out

"A tour de force of psychological horror." --Los Angeles Times

Sponsored by the Asian/Pacific Studies Institute (APSI), the Korea Foundation, the Program in the Arts of the Moving Image (AMI), the Department of Asian & Middle Eastern Studies (AMES), the Asian American Studies Program (AASP), and the Duke Korea Forum.
